

Care Coordination Certification Course

Nurses and Primary Clinical Staff: Have you been tasked with care coordination at your hospital? Are you wondering what to do first? ICAHN's self-paced, care coordination certification course can help – AND – you can earn 20 Continuing Education credits in the process! Partial scholarships are also available for ICAHN member hospitals...Want to learn more?

This course is designed to provide health professionals with the opportunity to improve care coordination for patients with chronic conditions and behavioral health issues, as well as incorporate health promotion into their practice.

The education in this course is developed based on the “Seven Domains of Care Coordination in the Primary Care Setting” by Kristy Baker, APRN-CNP, a Duke-Johnson & Johnson Nurse Leadership Program Fellow. The course is divided into 10 modules and will be delivered in a virtual environment using a combination of pre-recorded didactic presentations, asynchronous discussion threads, and a virtual meeting space for a live monthly discussion with the instructors.

Objectives for the course include, but are not limited to:

- Developing patient-centered goals for effective self-management
- Identifying appropriate community resources to incorporate into patients' care plan
- Conducting an annual wellness visit
- Analyzing research to incorporate into practice

Participants can earn 20 continuing educations credits through HealthTech S3, and a certificate of completion will be provided upon successful completion.

Cost for all ICAHN members is $500, and cost for non-ICAHN members is $550.

Interested individuals can sign up any time during the year. The recommended timeline for this course is approximately 16 weeks, with access to the course for up to a year.
