SPEAKER BIOGRAPHIES

Paul Skowron, MBA, FACHE, CEO, Warner Hospital and Health Services, serves as the 2022 ICAHN Board President. An Illinois State University graduate in 1978 with an accounting degree, Paul was employed by Blue Cross Blue Shield as a Medicare auditor. From 1980 to 1995, he had successive finance and management positions at academic medical institutions in the Chicago area, including Mount Sinai Hospital and the University of Illinois Hospital system. From 1995 to 2000, he served the University of Chicago Hospital, managing multispecialty operations off-campus in the Chicago area and northwest Indiana. From 2000 to 2007, he served as administrator of the Palos Surgery Center in Palos Heights, IL, managing operations and recruiting physician partners to increase surgical volume, and from 2007 to 2015, he served Regent Surgical Health as SVP Operations in the development and management of freestanding surgical centers and surgical hospitals across the country through joint ventures with physicians and hospitals. In addition to currently serving as ICAHN's Board President, Paul is also member of the Finance Committee and the Illinois Rural Community Care Organization (IRCCO).

Steve Tenhouse, FACHE, FHFMA, CEO, Kirby Medical Center, is a certified public accountant, board certified in healthcare finance and healthcare administration, and is a licensed nursing home administrator. He has served as past president of the McMahan-Illini Chapter of the Healthcare Financial Management Association and was named CEO of Kirby Medical Center in 2004. He has served as a member, secretary-treasurer, past president, and president of ICAHN's Board of Directors.

Dr. Lauren Fore is a family medicine doctor in Monticello and is affiliated with Kirby Medical Center. She received her medical degree from Ross University School of Medicine and has been in practice for almost a decade.

Dr. Jerry Kruse, MD, MSPH, is Dean and Provost of the Southern Illinois University School of Medicine and CEO of SIU Medicine, the faculty practice plan of the SIU School of Medicine. He is a tenured professor of Family and Community Medicine and of Medical Education. Dr. Kruse joined the SIU School of Medicine faculty in 1984 and has served the organization in many leadership roles, including chairing the Department of Family and Community Medicine for 16 years, Director of the Quincy Family Medicine Residency Program for 12 years, and Director of the Quincy Family Medicine's Complex Office Laboratory for 37 years. He is a national advocate for innovation in medical education and the advancement of health systems.

Prior to joining Heyl Royster, Katie Anderson practiced at a Decatur, IL firm, where she became a partner in 2012. Her practice included medical malpractice defense of healthcare entities and health professionals, creditor bankruptcy work, and civil litigation defense. She has also served as General Counsel for Decatur Memorial Hospital, Senior Associate General Counsel for Memorial Health System in Springfield, and has been with Heyl Royster as an Of Counsel Attorney since August of 2020.

Angie Bailey, MPH, MEd, CHES, is the System Director for Community Health in the Community Benefits Department at Southern Illinois Healthcare, a non-profit hospital system. She provides coordination and leadership in Community Benefits (CB) as she and CB staff work together with community partners to improve the health of the residents of southern Illinois. Angie had previously worked as the Director of Health Education at Jackson County Health Department for a combined 18 years as a student and employee. She provides leadership in grant writing, planning, implementation and evaluation of health education programming. She worked to conduct IPLAN (Illinois Project for the Local Assessment of Needs) in Jackson County from 1999-2015 and the Community Health Needs Assessment process for Southern Illinois Healthcare in 2015-2016, 2018, and 2021. She has overseen grants and programming related to opioid misuse, domestic violence, tobacco prevention and control, bullying, Medical Legal Partnership, chronic disease, and traffic safety, as well as many other topics. Ms. Bailey is a steering committee member of the Healthy Southern Illinois Delta Network and both the Jackson and Franklin/Williamson Communities Coalitions.

Sarah Gray, System Director, Business of Economic Development, Southern Illinois Healthcare, is focused on leading economic development initiatives to improve the health and well-being of the communities SIH serves as well as implementing new programs, processes, and solutions to improve the overall experience of seeking care at SIH. Prior to her role at SIH, Sarah worked for BJC HealthCare in St. Louis, MO, as the program director of the BJC Collaborative, a regional collaboration comprised of seven healthcare systems in Missouri and Illinois.

A double alumna of SIU Carbondale, Karen Leavitt Stallman earned her Bachelor of Science degree and Master of Science in Agriculture Education, with a minor in Animal Science. She worked 20 years with University of Illinois Extension in Randolph County, including a decade as unit leader and earlier as youth development extension adviser. Karen then served as the Director of the Sustainability Initiative and Vice Provost of the Red Bud Campus at Southwestern Illinois College for nine years. She served as Director of Continuing Education and Outreach Director at SIU Carbondale for six years. Today, Karen is the Agriculture Resource Specialist for the Farm Family Resource Initiative managed by SIU School of Medicine's Center for Rural Health and Social Service Development.

Mark Kuhn currently serves as the Chief Executive Officer for Hammond-Henry Hospital in Geneseo. Prior to this position, Mark served as Senior Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of the Springfield Clinic in Springfield, IL from 1998-2017 and before that, as the Executive Director of Managed Care for Lake Forest Hospital, Lake Forest, IL. Mark also serves as a board member and vice-chairman of the Illinois Compensation Trust.

Joann Emge, CEO, Sparta Community Hospital, has served on ICAHN's Board of Directors and its Education Committee since 2005. She has also served as ICAHN Board President, President-Elect, Secretary-Treasurer and as a member of the ICAHN Regulatory and Legislative Committee, the Trailblazer Committee, and the Quality Performance Committee. She also serves as a board member of the Illinois Rural Community Care Organization.

O'Shea Builders is a leading construction-services provider in Illinois. Founded in 1900, they provide general contracting, construction management, design-build, civil construction, and building maintenance services. O'Shea is a longstanding partner with ICAHN and instrumental in managing many ICAHN building projects.

BSA Life Structures is a large firm that has offices across the country, headquartered in St. Louis, and provides the design aspect of the building project. BSA does more than design-building, they create Life Structures that innovate and provide inviting spaces for healing, learning and discovery. They are well-versed in what is happening across the country with both large and small hospitals. Together, O'Shea and BSA Life Structures approach problems from different angles and challenge boundaries of the past, seeking new ways and ideas for future building programs.
